BERLIN, July 30.—German long-range guns were reported bombarding the outskirts of Leningrad today as Nazi military officials announced repulse of Soviet counter-attacks aimed at rescuing huge Red army forces trapped east of Smolensk.

There were no details of the bombardment but military reports said that "Big Berthas" for the first time had been brought within range and opened up on the one-time capital of the Czars.

Push Toward Moscow
Northeast of Smolensk, panzer and other motorized units were said to be pushing toward Moscow as the main German segments were engaged in bitter "annihilation" battles far behind.

Berlin spokesmen hinted at some "staggering" announcement to be made over the week-end, expected to afford a panoramic view of the greatest battle of the ages.

The Russian counter-attacks in the Smolensk sector, it was said, were repulsed "with heavy enemy losses."

PA NEW OBSERVES

It has been reported that Virginia Kirkwood of South New Castle Boro has picked 14 four-leaf clovers from the yard at the rear of her home.

Everywhere we see the "V" sign, showing our sympathy toward Great Britain, and today Pa Newsc saw the sign on a third-story window on North Mercer street. It looks to us as though it might be adhesive tape forming the numeral.

After yesterday's deluge of the down-town district, Pa Newsc found the modern Sir Walter Raleigh. While pedestrians wondered how to cross a rain-filled alley, a thoughtful motorist parked his car over the wet place, opened both doors, and provided dry passage to the other side.

On a lawn, opposite the Thaddeus Stevens school, East Washington street, there are two shapely Catalpa trees, looking like two large umbrellas.

Rainstorms of the past 24 hours have been unusually spotty. Those on Tuesday afternoon, during the night and early this morning, favored some sections and neglected others. While one part of town got a deluge, others got a light shower.

Some strangers have trouble with operation of the parking meters on the streets, Pa Newsc notes. Recently a couple of strangers were having difficulty with one of the meters as (Continued On Page Two)

Shortly prior to the embassy announcement, the Exchange Tel-

A few minutes later the agency killed this dispatch, but as soon as the embassy announcement was made Exchange again reported that Hopkins had arrived.

HARRISBURG, July 30.—The proposed one-third reduction of gasoline and oil consumption to meet demands of the nation's defense program, coupled with foreign shipments, would cost Pennsylvania $43,930,753 in tax revenue within the next two years, Auditor General F. Clair Ross warned today.

Ross predicted a staggering slump in collection of liquid fuels taxes on the basis of returns during the fiscal year which ended May 31. He also pointed out that the decrease would curtail highway construction in Pennsylvania because the motor license fund would lose more than

Judge Orders Dismissal Of School Teacher

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 30.—Reversing the state superintendent of public instruction, Judge Samuel H. Gardner today ordered the dismissal of James Gillies, Wilmerding school teacher accused of Communist activities.

The jurist held that parents and children, as well as teachers, have rights in upholding the Wilmerding school board, which had discharged the instructor.

The teachers' tenure act, the judge declared, was not intended by the legislature to enable teachers to hold their positions "regardless of merit" or regardless of the public interest.

"Gillies' dismissal was based upon his actions, not his political belief or political status, and therefore constituted no violation of his civil, political or constitutional rights," Judge Gardner said in his opinion.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The United States today delivered strong representations to Japan against the bombing of the U. S. S. Tutuila, a navy gunboat, damaged this morning during a Japanese air raid on Chungking.

The representations were made to Japanese Ambassador Admiral Nomura by Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, after conferring by telephone with President Roosevelt, summoned the Japanese envoy to the state department, and requested him to inform the Tokyo government of this nation's concern over the bombing of the American gunboat.

The American government made the representations within a few hours after receipt of an official message from the American embassy in Chungking concerning the bombing, which occurred this morning (Continued On Page Two)

(BULLETIN)

MOSCOW, July 30.—Heavy fighting on the battle fronts facing Moscow and Kiev during the night was announced by the Russian high command today as a sequel to earlier claims that the Germans had been thrown back on the Smolensk sector.

A new Soviet war communique stated:

"Stubborn fighting continued last night in the directions of Nevel, Smolensk and Zhitomir.

"Our air force, cooperating with the land forces, dealt blows to the enemy's mechanized infantry and artillery units."

Claim Nazis Dislodged
Through a series of heavy counter-attacks, an earlier communique claimed, Soviet forces "dislodged" the Nazis from their positions around Smolensk.

In one of history's most violent battles, the latest Soviet high command announcement indicated, the German drive on the Russian capital had received a serious set-back.

British military authorities said they felt the Russian counter-attacks in the Smolensk region may be the initial stages of a large-scale Soviet counter-offensive. They declared there was no evidence of any new German advance except in the Zhitomir area of the Ukraine, where the Germans are aiming their drive against Kiev.

House Republicans will vote almost to the man against keeping draftees in service beyond the statutory one year period. The large Democratic delegations from Pennsylvania, Illinois, and the New England States are also reported ready to line up a majority with the Republicans.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The United States government has decided to adopt a definitely hardboiled attitude toward Japan, an unimpeachable source disclosed today.

Henceforth, America's relations with the Nippon empire will be conducted on an old-fashioned Yankee horse-trading basis. If Japan plays fair with the United States, this government will be willing to continue commercial relations on a strictly controlled basis, but any further direct or indirect threats to American interests in the Pacific will be met with swift retaliation.

Would Be Threat
Furthermore, a Japanese attack on the Dutch East Indies or Singapore will be regarded as a direct threat against American interests.

Under the new trend in American far eastern policy, the United States government will be prepared to grant Japan sufficient oil for peaceful purposes but not a drop for aggressive designs in the Pacific.

While this does not mean that American oil shipments to Japan will be completely cut off in the immediate future, it does mean that such shipments will be drastically curtailed unless the Nippon empire ceases what are regarded as (Continued On Page Two)

Great Britain Issues Warns Iran On Nazis

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 30.—Great Britain has warned Iran of the danger in permitting heavy infiltration of Germans, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today.

His majesty's government, Eden said, "has drawn serious attention to the danger in Iran's own interests of continuing to permit excessively large numbers of Germans in the country."

"We trust," Eden said, "that Iran will not fail to heed this warning and take the necessary measures to deal at once with the situation."

Great Britain Eden added, is working in close cooperation with Russia on the matter.

Russia Repudiates German-
Soviet Partition Of Poland
In 1939

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 30.—Soviet Russia and the Polish government in exile have signed an agreement of collaboration, it was officially announced today.

One of the terms of the agreement is repudiation by Russia of the German-Soviet partition of Poland in 1939.

The Polish government, on its part, declared that Poland will not be bound by any previous agreement with any third power directed against the Soviet Union.

By terms of the agreement, the two governments mutually agree to render to one another aid and support of all kinds in the present war against Hitlerite Germany.

Russia also agrees to the formation of a Polish army on Soviet territory. This army will be under the orders of a Polish commander, appointed by the Polish government.

The agreement is effective immediately and does not require ratification.

Governor's Action Launches Dispute

Secretary Of Revenue Is Dismissed Because Of Political Activity

REPERCUSSIONS BEING HEARD

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 30.—The dismissal of Secretary of Revenue William J. Hamilton, Jr., from his $12,000-a-year cabinet position today threatened to plunge the state Republican party in a factional dispute of major proportions.

The net result of Gov. Arthur H. James' action may be to align anti-organization Republicans in an opposition bloc which will attempt to unseat the present leaders. Mentioned prominently in this respect, along with Hamilton, are former Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown, who resigned his cabinet post several months ago after a dispute with the governor over the placing of state advertising, and U. S. Senator James J. Davis, a prospective gubernatorial candidate.

Governor James' explanation that he dismissed Hamilton because of his political activity in this year's Philadelphia election drew from the former Philadelphia county sheriff the retort that "it is hardly material that the governor has not seen fit to extend to me the same privilege which he enjoyed, when, as a superior court judge, drawing his pay, he conducted his campaign for the high public office which he now holds." The governor resigned his judgeship upon his inauguration.

The summary dismissal of the cabinet official who has served since the beginning of the James administration, appeared to line up the state Republican organization, headed by Joseph N. Pew Jr., Philadelphia oil man, against Hamilton, who is recognized as a supporter of former U. S. Senator Joseph R. Grundy, Bristol manufacturer and party leader.

BERLIN CLAIMS LENINGRAD IS IN GUN RANGE

troops had been thwarted was issued in the war communique from Chancellor Hitler's headquarters at the front.

According to Plan

The war bulletin added that operations on other sectors of the eastern front are continuing "according to plan."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A Moscow announcement said these Soviet counter-attacks had "dislodged" German forces from their positions in the Smolensk area.)

German military authorities announced that German, Rumanian and Hungarian troops, staging a successful advance in the Ukraine annihilated strong Red army formations along the southern reaches of the Bug river.

In addition, it was claimed, two

Soviet divisions were annihilated west of Lake Peipus on the northern (Estonian) wing of the front. German military authorities claimed today that Soviet casualties in the Smolensk sector of the Russo-German front already exceed the half million men lost by the Red armies in the Bialystok slaughter earlier in the conflict.

11,000,000 Men Engaged

Completion of the "annihilation battle" now under way at the Smolensk region was anticipated in Berlin as a curtain-raiser to conclusion of the entire struggle along the front, in which some 11,000,000 men now are engaged.

Early this afternoon an official announcement said German planes yesterday destroyed a Soviet airfield near the far northern port of Murmansk. Sixteen Russian planes were said to have been shot down in an air combat and others were destroyed on the ground.

According to German authorities the Smolensk battle fields will be revealed as only one of several similar blood-soaked areas where mass annihilation of the Soviet forces has taken place.

It is probably the most important sector of the front, however, and Berlin quarters claim the Russian war machine has suffered terrific damage in the fighting there.

obvious preparations for an attack on American, British and Dutch interests in the southern Pacific.

No Desire To Force War

This government, it was said, has no desire to force Japan into war against the United States or any other power in the Pacific, but it no longer intends to stand by and have American interests in the Far East impaired without some form of retaliation.

The American government's position now is that the United States has taken a lot from Japan in the past and it does not intend to take any more without striking back economically, diplomatically, or even militarily, as the case may warrant.

Adoption of this strong policy in relation to Japan was decided upon by the administration as a result of the Japanese move into French Indo-China and the threatened move into Thailand.

These moves are regarded in official quarters in Washington as having no other purpose but to place Japan in position for an attack on the Dutch East Indies or Singapore. Japanese conquest of those Dutch or British possessions would, in the opinion of the administration, gravely affect American national defense interests.

While the great struggle on the ground centered on the central front, fighting in the air continued at high pitch.

The high command announced that on Sunday night and early Monday morning 74 German planes were shot down or destroyed on the ground while the Red air force lost 51 planes.

During a Luftwaffe attempt to bomb Moscow Monday night, it was stated, 10 German planes were shot down.

On the southern front Marshal Semyon Budenny's armies in the Ukraine also were reported developing a counter-attack similar to that on the central front.

The Moscow newspaper Pravda reported that Budenny watched his troops, after a three-day march, counter-attack and recapture a Ukrainian railway station.

activities for this year, disclosed that the boats were taken over in late February and kept confidential until today.

Six of the vessels have been forfeited to the United States government while the remainder are being held at Honolulu.

Japanese naval reserve officers were on the fishing boats when they were boarded by the Coast Guard and the snacks were equipped with auxiliary motors.

As an outgrowth of the seizures, federal indictments were returned in the Honolulu district court in March against 71 Japanese, mostly aliens, and three Honolulu fishing companies.

The citations charged conspiracy to violate American navigation laws, falsification of registry statements and income tax evasion, but officials believed spying was involved.

Long Suspected

The American government has long suspected the Japanese fishing fleet of engaging in espionage, not only in the Pacific isles, but along the entire Pacific coast.

Irey said that none of the Nipponese boats met requirements of American laws which specify that vessels under U. S. registry must be owned by American citizens.

Long months of investigation, directed by William Jennings Bryan Jr., customs collector at Los Angeles, revealed that the Japanese had registered their ships under the names of American-born wives, children and other relatives.

"In some instances," Irey reported, "these Japanese lived in Japan, in others they made regular trips to Japan, ostensibly to get medical treatment or to take the baths."

Another "suspicious thread" in the inquiry, he added, was the financing of the boats by the three fishing companies, the Pacific Fishing Co., Ltd., Honolulu Fishing Co., Ltd., and the Hawaii Suisan Kaisha, Ltd.

The companies, it was revealed, mortgaged some of the vessels with mortgages "too heavy for individual owners to carry."

One device used to conceal the true ownership of the boats, informed sources said, was use of "blanket names," a common practice among the Japanese. The name "Kasuga Maru" was designated to four ships, and the names "Tenjin Maru," "Kajo Maru," and "Nippon Maru" were given two ships each.

Irey said the coordinated efforts of the customs agency service, the Coast Guard and intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau in the investigation "in view of world conditions is regarded as the most momentous case developed during the fiscal year ended June 30."

Mr. Roosevelt laid the case on the table in simple words. He disclosed that the United States is now spending more than $30,000,000 a day on defense.

"This rate must and will increase," he said.

Against this gigantic expenditure Mr. Roosevelt asserted, an ever-increasing civilian demand is growing up for non-defense goods of which there are only a limited supply because of the defense program. The president said that price control is necessary to prevent profiteering and speculation in this field.

HOPKINS LEAVES LONDON FOR VISIT TO MOSCOW

with authorities in Moscow would cover the question of American material aid to the USSR in its fight against Germany.

Hopkins' dramatic journey to the Soviet capital was a well-kept secret even as late as noon today. Up to that hour it was believed generally in London that he was en route back to the United States.

The embassy declined to enlarge on its brief announcement but it was assumed here that Hopkins will study the Russian military situation at first hand and assure the Russians of all possible American aid.

Meanwhile, there was speculation in London as to whether he will continue from Moscow to the far east for a personal check of the situations in China, at Singapore and in the Philippine islands.

To Get First-Hand Report

(International News Service)

Washington, July 30.—Government officials today took the view that the sudden Moscow trip of Harry Hopkins, lease-lend administrator, was ordered by President Roosevelt so that his most trusted adviser could return with a first-hand report on the Russian war effort.

There was also considerable disposition toward the belief that the trip was also arranged for any possible upward effect it might have on Soviet morale. Washington officials were inclined to believe that Hopkins' mission would have little to do with lease-lend aid inasmuch as the Russians have already given this government their requirements in this particular.

SENATE BEGINS DEBATE ON TIME OF ARMY SERVICE

lean members of the committee served notice they would resist to yield on their compromise measure. It would prohibit service of draftees beyond one year, but would authorize keeping the Reservists and National Guardsmen in service during the emergency.

Debate On Policies

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley said senate consideration of the controversial bill probably will result in a full dress debate on international affairs, and another test of support of the administration's foreign policy. He predicted passage by Friday or Saturday night, however.

"The crisis with Japan undoubtedly will increase support for the bill, and bring it to a speedy vote," Barkley said.

The senate non-intervention bloc headed by Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., gave notice of an all-out fight against the bill on the grounds that its passage would lead to an American expeditionary force to go anywhere in the world. The non-interventionists declared also that to keep draftees in service more than a year will be to "break faith" with the youth of America, and "demoralize" the army.

The administration's side of the controversy is represented by a statement of Sen. Pepper (D) Fla. He said it would be "tragical" for congress to fail to heed the warnings of President Roosevelt, and Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall that failure to keep draftees in service would break up the organized units of the army in face of the emergency.

Restrict Use Of Troops

The non-intervention bloc plans to specifically write into the bill a prohibition against the use of draftees.

ees, Guardsmen and Reservists outside the western hemisphere, despite the fact that such a provision already is a part of the selective service act.

Administration leaders countered with the assertion that the draft extension bill does not disturb the western hemisphere ban. They pointed out that they discarded Gen. Marshall's request for a congressional declaration of a full national emergency, which would automatically lift the ban, and resorted to that part of the selective service act which declares that when the nation is imperilled the president is authorized to extend the draftees' service.

The non-intervention bloc also rallied behind a substitute bill proposed by Sen. Taft (R) Ohio which would extend the service of draftees. Guardsmen and Reservists to 16 months. It also would provide that approximately 75,000 soldiers under the three classifications would be discharged monthly, beginning next February.

The non-interventionists abandoned a proposal by Wheeler to pay enlisted men $100 a month, and thereby eliminate the necessity of the draft, through increased voluntary enlistments. Instead, they lined up behind an amendment by Sen. Downey (D) Calif. which carries a similar principle providing that the pay of all selectees, Guardsmen and Reservists who have served a year be increased from $30 to $60 per month. The additional $30 would be payable monthly after completion of service for a "rehabilitation fund."

Sen. Lee (D) Okla., speaking for the administration, warned, however, that "there will be no compromise" with the non-interventionists. He said the bill "already has been cut to the bone" by the administration.

British Troops Not In Thailand

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 30.—The official British radio reported today that Thailand has given the "best possible answer" to Japanese allegations that British troops are in that territory.

In a broadcast heard by NBC, the London announcer warned, however, that "there will be no compromise" with the non-interventionists. He said the bill "already has been cut to the bone" by the administration.

The Bangkok broadcast was said to have added that Thailand recently signed a non-aggression pact with Britain and to have added:

"Britain has never been known to break such pacts."

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

JEALOUSY MAKES CHILD SUFFER

Most parents seldom realize how much suffering a child may have to endure because of jealousy.

Concerning a girl 9 with a brother 6, a mother writes:

"She has always been a child who has cried easily. Even when a little thing, if she was disciplined in any way, she would cry and go to the room and sob and moan until she would be deathly white and limp.

"During these periods, after her brother was born, I was in a very nervous condition and in bad health for some months. I know that I scolded her harshly at times.

"Then again her father was always so proud of his son that while he showed no partiality in giving to them he undoubtedly put her in the background and showed off the boy.

Bright and Healthy

"Every night when I tucked her in bed and kiss her she will say, 'Mother, do you love me? I love you.' This seems to be about her only worry—that I won't love her.

"She, according to the doctor, is in the best of health. She gets excellent marks in school. Her teachers say they never have a bit of trouble with her.

"But at home she changes completely. She sags and complains from morning till night."

How would you and I act and feel in that child's face? I must confess that I suffered with this child as I read the letter, though I tried to remember that the mother and father have also suffered over this problem.

Terrible Jealousy

As kindly as I could, I wrote the mother trying to get her to see that her daughter's conduct comes from terrible jealousy; that this child supposes she is not loved at all while her brother is. Apparently the child never had much affection, very little approval from her parents, and much scolding, slapping and switching.

The more punishment she got the more sure she was of no love. Then while she was whipped and doing things her brother cooperated and was applauded for it.

I urged the mother and father to stop using corporal punishment; to cut down on any sort of punishment and show her abundant, real affection, and play up her successes and good traits, being careful never to compare her unfavorably with her brother.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Give a economical way of preparing orange juice.

A. You will not, of course, let orange juice stand since it loses some of the vitamin C when exposed to the air. Louise Zabricki, Mother and Baby Care in Pictures, writes: "An economical and safe method of preparing the orange juice is to cut a small piece from one end of the orange and squeeze the juice from that piece for one feeding."

Then turn the orange so that the cut surface is against the plate, saucer or patipaper tray. It should be kept in the ice box or some cool place until the next feeding time. Then cut off another piece of the orange and squeeze out a fresh spoonful or the amount needed. By repeating this method one orange may be used for three or four feedings."

And about tomato juice, she says: "Tomato juice, even though it is canned, may be used as a substitute or an alternate for orange juice. Strain the portion to be used for the baby when the can is opened and keep it closely covered in the ice box or other cool place. Twice as much tomato juice as orange juice should be given to the baby to provide the necessary amount of vitamin C. The vitamin C content of these juices is given to the baby to prevent scurvy."

Nearly all street cars are gone now. It's rare to hear a flat wheel outside of politics.

They are not citizens but subjects who say: "We must not criticize what our leader does, for he knows what is best."

A dictator has the advantage. He can lead without waiting to see which way the people wish to go.

Have you heard about the fellow who parked in a secluded nook with his girl friend?

When both fork and spoon are served with dessert, either may be used, as you choose. Brick ice cream usually eaten with a fork, but it is never incorrect to use a spoon.

Ickes Seen Bowing To Knudsen
OPM Head Wins Important Fight
Must Now Tackle Leon Henderson

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 30—OPM

Director William S. Knudsen won an important battle in his fight with Interior Secretary Harold Ickes when he knocked out the latter's drive for total control of the country's hydro-electric power. It remains to be seen how successful he will be in his struggle to defeat Leon Henderson's effort to add production regulation to his Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply's authority over the amount of cash we have to pay for life necessities.

Bill Knudsen had some help in his resistance to Secretary Ickes' attempt. Harold had grabbed so much already and has been trying to grab so much more that he'd antagonized a number of departments and agencies besides Bill's OPM, and they backed Bill up in his defense.

Harold's pretty potent just as interior secretary. He has, in fact, a lot to say about power generation, through his department's control of coal and oil production. However, this wasn't enough for him. He wanted to include hydro-electric energy — to develop it and to ration it out. It was a scheme presented, not only by Bill Knudsen, but by the Federal Power Commission and the Tennessee Valley Authority also. He proposed likewise to take charge of national transportation, a notion which set the Federal Commerce commission by the ears, as well as the railroads, bus and truck companies and steamboat lines. And he sought domination of telegraph, telephone and the radio, which made the Federal Communications commission hot under the collar. What's more, in times of emergency, the war and navy departments consider communications supervision among their prerogatives, as Harold made THEM sure. For quite awhile he's been trying to take the forestry bureau away from the agriculture department, which consequently is angry with him.

Circumventing Ickes

Well, what Bill Knudsen did was to create a power unit, under J. A. Krug, of the Office of Production Management, to stir up more and more hydro-electric energy and dish it out, split up between defense and civilian industries, as it thinks best—precisely the job that Harold had desired to become czar of. And Bill's making his system stick, perhaps not so much because he's so popular as because Harold's so much the other way.

There's gossip in Washington to the effect that Harold's aim has been to make such a mougel out of himself that he'll have to be presidentially nominated next time. If so, Bill's thrown a wrench into his campaign.

Not even Bill disputes that Leon Henderson's the country's official price fixer. True, the question's quite generally asked whether or not he can make his price fixations stick. He has had to rely largely upon exhortations and appeals, which have worked fairly well but not 100 per cent, and it's surmised that his success percentage will shrink as the pinch gets worse.

What Leon would like is more legal authority, so that he can hold inflation down by force.

That's a detail, though, that doesn't concern Bill.

It's when Leon announces that production of autos, for civilian use, must be cut down 50 per cent, practically instantaneously, that Bill objects. Leon's idea is that auto curtailment will permit auto factories to switch over to larger outputs of defensive stuff. Bill says that's alright, but the transformation can't be effected so fast—that an army of workmen will be put out of jobs while it's going on. He adds that production management's HIS stunt, not Leon's—Leon's is limited to price fixing. Well, it's a fact that Bill's a practical production expert, while Leon's an economist.

Here's Another

Another scheme's suggested in Washington.

It is that the government should buy all of every kind of raw material that's required for both defensive and civilian processing, and then ration it out to manufacturers in proportion to what it's obvious that conditions demand. It can't possibly be done intelligently, this proposition's proponents argue, except under strict central government control.

It's a government's job, they insist, to chance and individual whim and market fluctuations it won't work. Skeptics reply that it sounds like a pretty totalitarian program.

It'll involve price fixing, anyway. If THAT can be made to stick. Some critics insist that it can't. Leon says it can't altogether, but that it can be done to a certain extent.

"A parole is only half freedom," he said. "I want to be either all free or not free at all."

"To raise fine flowers gives me something to be proud of. But if I can't make good on parole, I'm right back in here again, anyway."

In turning down his parole, Gerakis didn't realize that, when he goes "scot-free" in fourteen months he'll still be on parole.

CONCERNING NAMES

What's in a name? City directories are not particularly interesting, but if one was inquisitive enough to read the classified lists of the directories of large cities, he would find that some business men pursuing particular occupations had names that might seem appropriate or very inappropriate. For instance, in a Chicago directory, I once found the name of a firm of lawyers known as Catchem and Fleecem. I actually know a firm of lawyers, father and son, Slickney & Slickney, and they do not believe their names; their names are very suggestive.

The other day, poking around in the part of the city having many wholesale fruit and vegetable markets, I happened to notice that cantaloupes were in the market in a big way and that the produce man having the largest stock of cantaloupes bore the name of Melon.

The Treasurer of a great railroad system was asked this question: "What's in a name?" and his reply was:

"You have only to examine the payroll roster of this railroad and you will find curious names. You will find that the seasons are represented by individuals named Summers and Winters. You will find the weather represented by Raine, Snow, Fog, Hail, Frost and Flood, and the family group includes workers named Parent, Child, Relation and Friend."

Students interested in the origin of names have many theories concerning the origin of names in all languages, but they are not certain whether the name "Smith," for instance, was given to some citizen long ago who happened to be blacksmith; or whether the name Painter was first given to a man who smeared some vegetable or fruit juice on a rock. These inquisitive persons have found no hard or fast rule regarding the origin of names.

It is true that in the Middle Ages names were fastened upon certain individuals by law, names that were degrading and the subjects of those names had to grin and bear it.

The courts of the various States just now are very busily engaged in authorizing the change of the names of citizens who do not wish longer to have a German name.

Secretary Of Revenue Ousted By Gov. James

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 30.—State Secretary of Revenue William J. Hamilton, Jr. of Philadelphia, was discharged from his cabinet post by Gov. Arthur H. James Tuesday afternoon, after he refused to resign.

The governor's ouster of Hamilton came shortly after he announced the appointment of Frederick T. Gelder as chairman of the liquor control board, and administration leaders were taken by surprise.

Governor James said he summoned Hamilton, former sheriff of Philadelphia county, to his office and asked him to tender his resignation. Hamilton refused, the governor said, and asked that he be dismissed.

Hamilton was the first cabinet official to be dismissed during the James administration and the first since the ouster of Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti during the Democratic Earle administration.

Hamilton's departure left vacancies in three cabinet posts. The other two vacancies were the secretary of health, due to the death of Dr. John J. Shaw, and of property and supplies, due to the resignation of Roger W. Rowland.

Gov. James made public the following letter to Hamilton:

"Dear Mr. Hamilton: In accordance with the authority vested in me by article six, section four of the constitution of Pennsylvania, I hereby remove you as secretary of revenue effective today.

"In my interview with you this morning I stated that I believed our action in advancing your ambition or personal leadership in the Philadelphia primary election, involving purely local and factional matters, to be incompatible with your position as secretary of revenue in which, in your field, you as

Rev. John Stump Receives Call To Emsworth Church

Son Of Local Pastor Extended Unanimous Call; Now In Philadelphia

St. James Lutheran church of Emsworth, in the Pittsburgh area, has extended a unanimous call to the Rev. John P. Stump of Philadelphia to become its pastor. Pastor Stump is a son of the Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Stump of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of this city.

After graduating from the local high school, the Rev. John Stump entered Muhlenberg College at Allentown, Pa., where he graduated with advanced standing, having won distinction in the department of English and oratory. After graduation in 1937, he entered the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mt. Airy, Philadelphia, that same fall, and graduated from that seminary in 1940. He immediately accepted an internship as one of the assistant pastors of the Messiah Lutheran church, the Rev. Dr. Ross Stover, pastor, located at 16th and Jefferson street, Philadelphia. The church is more generally known as "The Friendly" church and has the reputation of having the largest mid-week services in America, often exceeding a thousand in attendance. Dr. Stover is known in religious circles as the outstanding evangelistic preacher of the present day. As an instance, the Messiah Lutheran Easter morning service in Temple University Stadium this last year drew an audience of upwards of 30,000 persons as early as 6:30 a. m., and the service was broadcast over more than 170 stations.

Pastor Stump, having gone through a period of training of such wide and intensive scope will come well prepared to meet any service and parish needs.

War Certain If Japan Moves Into Dutch East Indies

U. S. Discloses Such A Move Means Jap - British War

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Any attempt by Japan to move into the Dutch East Indies will result in war with England, official United States government sources disclosed today.

These sources declared, however, that Japan's thrust into French Indo-China appears to be "wholly opportunistic"—a case of "picking up what they can" while given the chance by world conditions.

It was admitted that the Japanese coup in acquiring bases in the south Pacific has "offensive possibilities," but further moves either to the north or south are not expected until there is a clarification of the Russo-German conflict and consequent repercussions on Great Britain's position in the east.

Meanwhile, official spokesmen discounted any immediate retarding of Japanese aggression by cutting off oil supplies for her war machine. They stated that Japan, in recent years, has prepared for such an eventuality, and now has large stocks of oil on hand, particularly for her navy.

"War Weary Nation" Japan was pictured as a "war weary nation" that has no alternative but to continue fighting. Both from internal economic considerations and outside pressure, it was stated that Japan cannot bring home the million men she has under arms in the Asiatic continent.

A Japanese move either to the north into Siberia or southward into the Pacific archipelago was viewed as "an extremely difficult operation." It was pointed out that Japan at present has approximately 57 divisions, and is in the act of calling up additional 250,000 to 300,000 men.

Of the 57 divisions, 37 are committed in China and nine or ten more in Manchuria. While some of these forces can be withdrawn for a northern or southern campaign, much would have to remain where it is, unless Japan should choose to abandon her Chinese venture.

Although Russia is now engaged in a life and death struggle with Germany on her western front, she is still estimated to have a strong eastern force on the Siberian-Manchukuo border. The Japanese are estimated to need 22 or 23 divisions to successfully prosecute a northern aggression into Siberia.

To the south, Japan is faced with the almost impregnable British fortress and naval base at Singapore, which stands as a constant deterrent to further expansion in that direction.

Japan was viewed as being unwilling to embark upon further southern aggression via "vulnerable" Philippine islands. It was stated that while the Philippine island forces are not sufficient to defend the island alone for any period of time, involvement of the United States in such a campaign would make it a major operation.

Private Held In Fatal Shooting

(International News Service) PORT DIX, N. J., July 30.—Private Michael Clancy, of Buffalo, N. Y., was under arrest today pending an army investigation into the fatal shooting of Sergeant Francis J. Russo, 21, his hometown friend, during reported "horseplay" at the Fort Dix post.

Authorities said Russo encountered Clancy on sentry duty while inspecting the guard. The private playfully unholstered his 45 caliber automatic, it was said, and then Russo fell with mortal chest wounds even as a nearby soldier shouted: "Look out, the gun's loaded." Clancy and Russo belonged to the same outfit—Company F, 174th Infantry, 44th Division—and had been close friends for many years, army officials said.

BAN ON GASOLINE CONSUMPTION WOULD COST STATE HUGE SUM

road improvements would necessarily have to be curtailed or indefinitely deferred.

Meanwhile, federal petroleum coordinator, Harold L. Ickes, reported that his plea for reduced gasoline consumption had resulted in an increase of 1,525,979 gallons last week.

Gasoline rationing has been proposed for eastern states because scores of sea-going tankers have been transferred to Britain, thus reducing the daily flow of gas and oil to the east from western states. "During the 1941 fiscal year," Ickes continued, "total liquid fuels tax collections amounted to $65,896,127—an increase of $8,894,562 over 1940—when the collections were $57,001,564."

He pointed out that Pennsylvania collects four cents a gallon tax on gasoline and oil used in motor vehicles and that the consumption in the 1941 fiscal year (June 1940 to June 1941) was approximately 1,647,403,175 gallons as compared with 1,425,039,122 gallons during the 1939-40 fiscal year.

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., leading non-interventionist, today had the apology of Secretary of War Stimson for charging the senator with deliberately circulating soldiers against extension of the service of draftees.

In a formal statement late yesterday, Stimson expressed regrets for making the accusation and for declaring that Wheeler's activities were "near treason."

The fiery Montanan said that the war secretary's move was "a very decent thing for him to do."

Secretary of Navy Knox also expressed his personal regrets to Wheeler over an episode in which a rear admiral told Richard Wheeler, the senator's son, that "there's no place you in the navy". The admiral is alleged to have made that remark when young Wheeler, in making application for a commis-

Big Bill Thompson Is Now For Aid To Britain

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 30.—Big Bill Thompson, who as mayor of Chicago once threatened to punch King George V on the nose and conducted a long campaign to purge pro-British references from public school books, today emerged as a full-fledged aid-to-England advocate.

He's not an "all out"—doesn't favor sending American troops abroad—but short of that he favors, in his own words, "every possible aid." Now 71 years old and living in quiet retirement, the former mayor explained:

"I am for helping England at this hour because I believe that in so doing we are helping the defense of this country. We should extend to England, in every way we can short of sending our boys to foreign battles, every possible aid."

Thompson who was christened

William Hale but was known as "Big Bill the Bulldozer" throughout his stormy political career, revealed that he reads everything he can get his hands on about the war and hears most of the long and short wave radio programs about it.

"We've got to look at this thing in a common sense way," he said. "This is no time to think about us in the past, but what is best for the United States and all of us at this critical time."

He is also pulling for the Russians in their struggle against the Nazi invaders, he declared, and has gone to the trouble of re-reading the histories of Napoleon's Russian campaign.

"Napoleon took Moscow, but when he tried to go home the Russians wrote the downfall of a conqueror," he said. "I've got a hunch that history is going to repeat this time, and I hope it does."

St. Lawrence Canal Program Assailed

Witnesses From Coal And Iron Ore Areas Oppose Seaway Proposal

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 30.—Witnesses representing the coal region of Pennsylvania, and the iron ore areas of the Great Lakes, on Tuesday assailed the proposed St. Lawrence seaway and power project as "economically unsound."

As the house rivers and harbors committee continued hearings on a bill that would authorize construction of a lakes-to-sea waterway and a hydro-electric plant, they heard this testimony:

Rep. Flannery (D) Pa., representing the anthracite coal region asserted that the project is "economically unsound" because it would reduce coal consumption and would open the Great Lakes region to "an invasion of foreign commerce" at the end of the present conflict.

Alexander C. Brown, Cleveland, O., the vice-president of the Cleveland Iron Co., told the committee that the seaway would do "irreparable harm" to the iron ore industry by paving the way for cheaply-produced foreign ore in the future.

"We have everything to lose and nothing to gain by this project," Flannery said. "I'm afraid it will bring in cheap coal from abroad."

Flannery added that the project would seriously curtail anthracite coal consumption.

Brown contended that such a seaway would invite a foreign invasion of midwestern markets because the Great Lakes area constitutes "one of the most alluring markets in the world."

The Cleveland witness predicted that "an era of competition, the like of which has never been seen before" will follow peace in Europe, and he stated that American iron ore and iron and steel products will be virtually affected and American labor will be the first to suffer.

By constructing the seaway, he held, foreign iron ore and iron and steel could be shipped to every port on the Great Lakes at prices undercutting American producers because of low labor rates in other countries.

On a motion by Rep. Rankin (D) Miss., the committee voted to conclude hearings on the bill Wednesday of next week.

New Plastic Made From Cottonseed Hulls Called Boon To Cotton Farmers

(International News Service)
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 30.—Out of a small building back of the University of Tennessee football stadium have come discoveries that may save the tottering throne of King Cotton.

From researches of more than a decade Tennessee scientists have emerged with a new plastic made from cottonseed hulls—an amazing new material that soon may appear in the form of tea trays, steering wheels, wall boards, compact, fountain pens, telephones, electrical appliances and industrial equipment.

Sheaves for textile looms, made of the cottonseed plastic, are already in use on textile looms in 10 states. Over a long period the cottonseed researchers ran an experimental oil mill, making dozen of tests on the oil and studying methods of extracting it from the seed.

On the basis of these studies they developed a pressure cooker to be used in the extraction process which reduced "cooking time" from two hours to 15 minutes, increased the oil yield by 10 pounds per ton of cottonseed, and reduced power and fuel costs 25 per cent. This development alone will save the south $5,000,000 annually, according to Research Director John P. Leahy.

Other researches are now under way on extraction and treatment of a cottonseed protein which may be spun into yarn closely resembling wool. It may also be used as a base of a "paint" similar to calcimine. Director Leahy sees in the discoveries "an answer to the problem of surplus and idle acres." Cottonseed he says, may some day replace cotton lint as the south's chief product.

Detroit Parkgoers Devour Hot Dogs In Huge Volume Unique Survey Discloses

(International News Service)

DETROIT, July 30.—If all the hot dogs eaten by Detroiters in 1940 at park stands were placed end to end they would reach 37 miles, or from downtown Cadillac Square to Ann Arbor, Mich., according to C. V. McGrath, superintendent of the city's refectories.

The total of 360,720 steamed canines, or 22½ tons, is expected to be topped this year by nearly eight tons, as better business conditions promise an increase in sales, McGrath indicated.

According to McGrath, hot dogs are still the prime favorite of parkgoers. In his 21 years with the public food concessions he has watched the original eight stands expand to 20. And always, through the years, the hot dog has been the favorite park food-stuff.

Heavy Food Sales
To date in 1941, refectories of the department of parks and Recreation have taken in $201,386 as compared to $138,793 for the same period last year. Going on these figures, the department should profit by $100,000 through all of its concessions for the season. This net profit would be realized if the total gross exceeded last year's take of $460,000 by approximately $165,000, the report revealed.

In 1929, the department grossed $60,000. To date this year all indications encourage belief that the million dollar year is not far off, McGrath and his assistants believe.

Other figures show that during 1940, visitors to Detroit's public parks, bought: 97,139 gallons of soft drinks; 1,351,094 ice cream cones; 401,280 candy bars; 56,000 packages of cracker jack; almost 12 tons of peanuts; 189,120 cups of coffee; 122,496 half-pints of milk; 36,360 doughnuts; 69,720 packages of gum and 2,667,390 packages of cigarettes.

Governor Cuts Nearly Million Dollars From Appropriation Measures

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 30.—Using the red pencil unmercifully, Gov. Arthur H. James on Tuesday slashed more than three-quarters of a million dollars from appropriation measures approved by the legislature, citing the need for economy in most instances.

The executive vetoes ranged from disapproval of a $437,220 increase in the salaries of liquor store employees to a $1,000 appropriation for the maintenance by the state of the Northumberland county home of Joseph Priestley, discoverer of oxygen. In all, the cuts totaled $811,500.

The governor has now acted upon 60 per cent of the bills approved by the legislature. To date he has signed 292 and vetoed 16, leaving 183 bills still to be acted upon.

The governor also approved appropriations totaling $890,425, the largest item being $420,000 for the Elwyn Training school in Delaware county.

Cost Too Great

In vetoing the liquor employees increase, which was backed by the State, County and Municipal Employees Union (CIO) Governor James found many faults with the measure. For one thing, he stated, the cost was too great to the state.

The bill was also discriminatory in that it did not cover all liquor employees, he added, and "wages of any group or class of commonwealth employees should not be raised out of proportion to any other class or group just because one class may be better organized or in a position to exert pressure."

The bill would have increased the salaries of more than 2,052 liquor employees by $465,720, establishing an $1865 annual minimum for store managers, $1620 for assistant managers, and $1380 for all other employees handling stock or money. Employees who work "behind the scenes," said the governor, are not affected by the bill and an additional $250,000 would be required to make the raise uniform.

Other Cuts Made

Other cuts made by the governor, many with the comment that "this item was not included in the budget and the condition of state revenues does not warrant the taking over at this time" of additional expense, were these: $48,000 in the $468,000 appropriation to the Elwyn Training school in Delaware county, reducing it to $420,000; $10,000 in the $100,000 appropriation for the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art, Philadelphia, reducing it to $90,000.

The governor vetoed outright the following appropriations: $30,000 to the California State Teachers College for the purchase of additional land; $5,000 for state maintenance of the Admiral Peary Memorial park, in Cresson township, Cambria county; and $2500 for the acquisition and development as a state park of the site of the historical fortress known as "Old Garrison," in Franklin, Venango county.

Gubernatorial approval was given to these appropriations: Elwyn Training school $420,000; Women's Medical College of Pa., East Falls, Philadelphia, $120,000; Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, $150,000; Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art, Philadelphia, $90,000; Moore Institute of Art, Science and Industry, formerly Philadelphia School of Design for Women, Philadelphia, $30,000.

Also, $40,000 to the Department of Military Affairs for the education and maintenance of orphans of military personnel disabled in the Spanish-American and World Wars, not to exceed $200 annually for each individual for not longer than a four-year period; $40,425 to the treasury department, taken from 17 special state funds, in lieu of replacement of checks issued in lieu of outstanding checks when presented.

Other Bills Approved

The governor also approved these bills, none of which carried state appropriations:

An act permitting school directors to appropriate funds for tuberculosis medical treatment for students and employees; an act further regulating sewer connections and sewer district assessments; an act enabling tax collectors to collect taxes for whose payment they have become personally liable without having collected them by the expiration of their terms of office, extending for a two-year period the time for collections, and validating collections made or commenced without previous authorization.

The governor also approved a measure authorizing the Department of Public Instruction to set aside a week each year to be known as "bill of rights week," during which students will be impressed with the significance of democratic principles.

A bill bringing bakeries under the supervision of the Department of Agriculture and requiring them to register with the state was also approved, along with bills repealing more than 20 obsolete relief laws, a measure enabling taxpayers to redeem property sold for delinquent taxes through 20 per cent installment payments, a bill providing for the establishment of fire hydrants and water service in second class townships, with a one-mill real estate tax authorized to provide the necessary funds.

Also approved, a bill exempting assets held by liquidating trustees from the personal property tax, a measure exempting from the personal property tax the casualty insurance held by companies not having capital stock, and an act excluding the proceeds of life insurance from the personal property tax. Another act duplicating these bills was vetoed.

The fish population of Canada is being depleted rapidly according to underground communications received here. Judge W. Walter Brahams is on his vacation there and is reported to be using writs and opinions for bait instead of the usual worms and flies.

Bids for the ballots to be used in the September primary will be opened by the county commissioners on Tuesday, August 5 at ten o'clock a. m. A total of 62,760 ballots will be ordered, not that there will be that many votes cast. Of the total the division reads like this: Republican official ballots, 32,605; Republican reserve, 3130; specimen reserve, 870; a total of 39,735 Republican ballots.

Democrat official ballots, 18,610; official reserve 1875; specimen 1875 and specimen reserve, 665; a total of 23,025 Democratic ballots.

The commissioners are still in the dark in the matter of soldiers' ballots. The ballot bid is being let early this year in order to prepare for whatever is necessary for the military vote.

Soldiers can vote by mail but just how their ballot is to be prepared, if there is to be any change from the regular ballot is not known. They are expected to ask for their ballots thirty days from the primary and the ballots are to be mailed them fifteen days prior to the primary.

Campers Forget Heat With Fun Program

Collecting Water Specimens Is A Cool, Interesting Hobby

The extremely hot weather is not interfering with the fun at Camp East Brook, for there is something about this picturesque spot that makes for congeniality and happiness. The daily program has been adapted to the weather, and includes music appreciation, sketching in the glen, pine pong and nature handicraft work. Excellent cabin drawings of the song, "The Far Northland," now adorn the lodge walls, and lend a very cooling effect, too. Many campers have been busy themselves about the stream, collecting water specimens. Verna Taylor and Caddie Wallace began the collection which now includes a frog, crab, baby bass, snails and other interesting wiggles. Girls take time to rest while watching their antics.

Much enthusiasm is being aroused concerning the red, white and blue color teams. Members of these teams have been challenging others in games to gain points for their team. The red team, including the Harbor and Mahoning cabins, are in the lead at present. The athletic contest will close Friday.

Interest is centered upon the day's choice of the nearest cabin, too. Many devices have been employed to outdo the super-Hermitage cabin. Monday night's program featured an early dancing period with an impromptu South Sea Island dance by Joan Kishaka. Mrs. "Becky" Gerson then arrived to entertain the girls with her moving pictures of Mexico and the Ellwood City Girl Scout camp. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed "Splash" on the screen as a butterfly-catcher and "Scottie" as an archer.

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 30.—Gov. Arthur H. James has announced approval of a $75,000 loan from the highway department to the Turnpike Commission to finance a traffic survey to determine the anticipated revenue from a Turnpike extension to Philadelphia.

The governor disclosed that a survey made by a New York firm last February indicated a grant of $26,000 would be necessary for the construction of the $52,000,000 eastern extension. The balance would be financed from revenue bonds.

The first survey, the governor added, recommends a toll charge of 60-cents for passenger cars between Philadelphia and Middlesex. However, motorists traveling from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh would be charged $2.00.

Recommended truck rates between Middlesex and Philadelphia range from $1.50 for trucks up to 15,000 pounds to $3.00 for the heaviest trucks with full trailers. Light trucks will be charged 75-cents and buses $2.00 for the through trip over the eastern extension of the Turnpike.

Recommended truck rates between Middlesex and Philadelphia range from $1.50 for trucks up to 15,000 pounds to $3.00 for the heaviest trucks with full trailers. Light trucks will be charged 75-cents and buses $2.00 for the through trip over the eastern extension of the Turnpike.

British Youths Now In Training At Pittsburgh

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, July 30.—Five British youths with a hankering to repay Hitler in kind for his bombing of England began preliminary training as R. A. F. pilots at the Pittsburgh-Butler airport today.

They arrived here last night from Maxwell Field, Ala., and will return to America, Ga., after August 23. In the interim, they will receive 30 hours instruction in light planes and five hours instruction in biplanes.

They are the first R. A. F. pilots to receive training in the north, and are also the first to take a preliminary training course similar to that offered American youths by the Civilian Pilot Training program.

William Graham, owner of the flying school, said the preliminary course "gives the students a chance to get accustomed to this country and our habits before they come under the strict army discipline."

Members of the group were Reg McCadden, 27, Belfast, Ireland; John Seigne, 21, Blarney, County Cork, Ireland; Edward Lear, 20, London; Harry Hepplewhite, 20, Doncaster, Yorkshire; and James T. Jennings, 24, Anfield, Liverpool.

All were highly enthusiastic about America and the hospitality of her people. And all were equally convinced that England "will win the war, no matter how long it takes."

Late August and September are two of the best months for transplanting evergreens. To insure success, the ground should be thoroughly prepared before planting begins. It should be dug deep and enriched.

Mrs. Speed Tells Of Visit To Army Camp

Mrs. Gertrude Speed of R. F. D. No. 2, whose son, Pvt. Don Langston, is stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., and who has just returned from a visit there, gives an interesting account of her impressions at camp, which she feels will be of assurance to many mothers whose sons are stationed in an army camp during the present emergency.

Don, who had been residing in Cleveland, O., was inducted into service on March 28, having volunteered ahead of his time in the Selective Service call.

Mrs. Speed arrived in Columbus, Ga., on July 24, and was met by her son and taken to the Service club of the Second Armored Division, where she stayed at a cost of 50 cents per day. Her son's barracks was close by, which gave her an opportunity to be with him more than had she been staying farther away. Guests can buy their meals at the club at a small cost, she stated.

Food Is Excellent

The food the men get in camp is excellent, Mrs. Speed stated. She had two evening meals in the company mess hall with the boys. The barracks were found excellent, the beds good, and were kept in clean lines.

She was particularly interested in the tank division, as that is the unit her son is in, his work being to weld racks into the tanks and trucks to carry extra oil for maneuvers to start soon. She was given permission to visit motor park and look over the light tank, equipped with 37 millimeter guns, motorcycles, armored trucks, jeeps, scout cars, command cars, pontoons, of which they had many, and high-powered supply trucks.

She watched the tanks being driven in training and stated it was a wonderful sight. She also witnessed the training of the parachute troops at the main post, 13 miles away.

In the rear of the Service club there is an open air dance floor, and dances are held once a week for the boys. In the recreation hall inside the Service club is a well-equipped library, with a hostess and three assistants in charge of the club, all of whom are well qualified for their job in trying to help the boys spend their leisure time in a profitable way.

Sees British Youths

En route from Cincinnati south, she met some young British boys on their way to Florida for air training. They seemed pleased with the fine treatment given them by the American people.

While away, she also stopped at Panama City, Fla.; Fort McPherson and Camp Wheeler, and saw many sights. Throughout the south one sees boys in uniform everywhere one turns, she stated.

One of her biggest thrills was received just as Mrs. Speed was leaving to come home, her son's commanding officer giving her a copy of a citation which five boys of her son's company, Don included, had received for special detail work on the last maneuver in Tennessee. It made her feel quite proud, indeed.

Mrs. Speed did not see very many boys from New Castle, but she did meet many from Pennsylvania, all of whom are eager for news from home, and every one wanting his friends to write.

Double Sentence For Johnson As He Takes Bride

(International News Service) ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 30.—Enoch "Nucky" Johnson, Atlantic City's Republican boss, who is up for sentence Friday on a conviction for federal income tax evasion, today announced that he would be married tomorrow to Florence ("Flossie") Osbeck, former New York showgirl.

The 58-year-old politician, who faces a 10 year sentence and fines and penalties of $100,000, said the marriage would take place at his Atlantic City residence. Announcement of the marriage culminates a 7-year romance which began when Johnson spotted the former Philadelphia girl in a New York show.

Attorneys for the Republican leader yesterday filed a motion in federal court at Camden, N. J., contending the verdict was against the "weight of the evidence" if this plea fails, they indicated they will file an appeal to a higher court, and seek to have Johnson remain free under his present $25,000 bail pending the new court action.

Two years ago, Miss Osbeck, daughter of a Philadelphia street car conductor, announced her engagement to Johnson. The Republican chieftain has been married before. A teen-age romance ended tragically with the death of his bride when he was only 21.

News Briefs From City Hall

Safety Director David O. Davies today announced that the city is charging owners of properties outside the city for garbage service. The statement followed a statement in council Tuesday that some persons are building outside the city, yet sanitary sewer service. Council took the attitude that people residing on the "orders of the city" do not pay city taxes yet want city conveniences and council intends to make them pay for such service. Relative to the services of the fire department, it was stated that an insurance company always contributes to the fire department after the company is called to render service at places outside the city. Shenango and Neshannock townships have their own departments.

ASCAP And Broadcasting Companies Are Believed Near Agreement

(International News Service) NEW YORK, July 30.—An end to the dispute between the National Broadcasting Company and ASCAP (The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers) appeared to be in sight today.

ASCAP and NBC have virtually reached an agreement, it was said, the question of how much royalty should be paid by NBC for ASCAP music played over its network.

ASCAP music was banished from the networks on January 1 when the networks and ASCAP could not reach an agreement on the royalty price.

A break in the networks' ranks came when Mutual Broadcasting Company settled with ASCAP on May 11.

The terms now virtually agreed upon between NBC and ASCAP represent a compromise. After settling with Mutual ASCAP offered NBC the same terms—3 per cent of total network and station income for use of the music. NBC countered with an offer of 2 1/2 per cent. The negotiators then split the difference and agreed on 2 3/4 per cent.

Columbia Broadcasting Company—the third network involved—has offered 2 per cent. CBS, of course, is not bound by any contract NBC may make with ASCAP. CBS-ASCAP negotiations, however are proceeding.

NBC's reported agreement to pay 2 3/4 per cent applies to network income. Individual stations will pay 2 1/4 per cent of their local time sales.

ASCAP formerly collected 5 per cent from stations but complained it got nothing from the network income.

They said their vehicle was rocked back and forth as it was to be overturned, then faced in the opposite direction. The occupants said they recognized several persons in the group, and police indicated early arrests may follow.

(International News Service) LONDON, July 30.—Two British newspapers, the London Daily Telegraph and Daily Sketch, today published reports that German Air General Ernst Udet, famous German aviator and creator of the Nazi parachute troops, has committed suicide.

(Editor's Note: A dispatch from Berlin said German military quarters flatly denied foreign rumors that Udet is dead. These circles said Udet is "continuing his usual technical and experimental operations.")

Auto Production Must Be Reduced

Industry Will Be Forced To Cut Production Below 600,000 Cars In Quarter

By JACK VINCENT

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The nation's automobile industry will be forced to cut production below 600,000 cars in the first quarter of the new model year starting Friday, the office of production management and the office of price administration and civilian supply announced today.

Originally, the automobile companies had agreed to cut production by 20 per cent so that approximately 600,000 vehicles would be produced in August, September and October. However, after a meeting between representatives of motor car makers and OPM and OPACS, the industry representatives were told today that the tentative schedule, which included the 20 per cent cut was still "too high" and would have to be adjusted.

A high defense official was asked if this meant that automobile concerns would have to cut below the 600,000 figure. He replied "Yes." He refused to give an estimate how large the cut would be.

William Henderson, head of OPACS and Leon S. Knudsen, OPM director, previously had agreed that a 20 per cent cut would have to be made in the first quarter. Later Henderson announced that auto-

Workman Dies By Electrocuton

Fatal Accident Occurs At Ellwood City Plant Tuesday Afternoon

ELLWOOD CITY, July 30.—John S. Voisan, 48-year-old bachelor, who lived at 264 13th street, was electrocuted yesterday afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock while working in the Beaver Enameling company plant.

Voisan, who has been employed as a millwright by the Beaver Enameling Co. for the past 10 years, was engaged in making some repairs to the ventilation system, and was drilling into the motor of the exhaust system, located just under the roof. Working with him was Earl Mowry. Mowry noticed him start to fall, and attempted to catch him, receiving quite a shock himself.

Voisan's head struck a pile of plates, standing on edge. He was lifeless when his body was examined immediately afterwards, but the Ellwood City Rescue Corps, under the direction of a doctor, worked over the body for some time in an effort to revive him. Their efforts were fruitless, however.

The deceased is survived by his mother and three brothers. Of these all still live in Rumania, except his brother, Samuel, a resident of this community.

The body will lie in the Rumanian club until the funeral services are held tomorrow afternoon at 2 p. m. They will be held from the Rumanian church and burial will be made in the Locust Grove cemetery.

The worst enemies of China aspers are the tarnished plant bug, which can often be repelled by using tobacco dust; the aster beetle, which defies everything but hand picking; and the yellow disease, which may be avoided if every aphid is caught by a nicotine spray.

Asserts America Actively In War

Rome Publication Discusses Admission Destroyer Dropped Depth Bombs

BULLETIN

ROME, July 30.—Disclosure by Navy Secretary Knox that a United States warcraft dropped depth charges off Greenland "amounts to active participation in the war" by the American navy, Virginia Gayda wrote in the Giornale D'Italia today.

Official quarters, however, had no comment on the admission.

Reporters at a foreign office press conference were told that there is no question of an axis peace offensive at this time. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's prediction of such a move was termed a "speculative manoeuvre".

The spokesman said that Prime Minister Winston Churchill had admitted the difficulties being suffered by British industries. This, it was said, was caused by transfer of axis forces from the eastern front.

HAD RING DATE—Red Cochrane, left, of Elizabeth, N. J., and Fritz Zivic of Pittsburgh had ring date in Newark, N. J., July 29.

Red Cochrane Defeats Zivic, Captures Title

Outfights Zivic In Close, Wins Seven Of First Ten Rounds

NEW CHAMPION TO ENTER ARMY SOON

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEWARK, N. J., July 30.—A tough, 26-year-old red-headed Irish kid from the same block in near-by Elizabeth in which another great champion, Mickey Walker, was born, Red Cochrane, captured the welterweight championship of the world today—but may go into the army before he has a chance to defend his title.

That's the news out of this rejoicing city today as Freddie (Red) Cochrane, a 4-1 underdog, read victory wires of congratulation for his upset of Pittsburgh's Fritz Zivic at Ruppert Stadium last night. Cochrane, after stealing a long early lead, managed to stave off Zivic's desperate closing, blood-stained rally in five, desperate final rounds to bring the first title to New Jersey since the famed Toy Bull Dog won the very same 147-pound title from Jack Britton way back in 1922.

Red, a close friend of Zivic's outside the ring, had invited Fritz the night of the champion's cinch win over Al (Bummy) Davis in New York, to a "V for Victory" dinner win or lose, after last night's bout. Zivic and his handlers regrettably refused the invitation after the biggest upset in Jersey's recent ring history.

Promoter Mike Jacobs of New York, who with Babe Culnan of this city staged last night's show, said the contracts called for Cochrane to give Zivic a return match within 60 days. He indicated he would put the match in New York's Madison Square Garden if everything could be worked out.

After the fight, however, as Cochrane prepared to depart for his victory party at his Hillside, N. J., tavern, it was learned, Freddie, free white and 26, had sent in his draft

Cochrane Decisions Zivic, Wins Welter Title

DiMaggio Seeking Salary Of $80,000

Famous Outfielder Will Ask Uncle Ed Barrow For More Cabbage In 1942

PIRATES DEFEAT BOSTON BRAVES

By PAT ROBINSON

(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, July 30.—Half a century in baseball has insured Ed Barrow to shocks of all kinds.

But the veteran president of the Yankees never in his life felt half the shock that awaits him when he starts to talk turkey with Joe DiMaggio on Joe's next contract.

For, from a close friend of Joe's, we learn today that Joe is going to ask for as much as Babe Ruth ever received and that would be $80,000!

And don't think for a moment that Joe won't be able to make out a strong case for himself provided he realizes his ambition to lead his league in batting, in runs batted in, runs scored and in homers, to say nothing of a gentle hint about Joe's drawing power at the turnstiles.

His 24th Homer

Joe reputedly draws $35,000 now and while he may not get $80,000 next year most baseball men believe he is sure to get at least $50,000 and that kind of money will buy a awful lot of baby booties.

Joe put in another plug for himself yesterday when he slammed out his 24th home run in a losing cause and that incidentally ran his new hitting streak through 12 games.

However, four Yankee pitchers insisted on handing the Tigers a 6-3 decision by handing out 13 passes and Charley Stanceau had the dubious distinction of losing the game without giving a single hit by forcing in two runs on five passes in the seventh.

Meanwhile, the Indians, with Al Smith operating, topped the Senators 5-1 and Johnny Niggeling of the Browns feather-balled the Red Sox into a 3-2 defeat. And, in the best game of the day Ed Smith of the White Sox bested Phil Marchiondo of the Athletics 1-0 each pitcher giving only four hits.

Pirates Trim Braves

Over in the other circuit, the Reds came from behind to trounce the Giants, 7-4; the Cubs slaughtered the Phils 12-4, with Hack, Dahlgren and Nicholson homering; the last with three aboard, and the upsurging Pirates downed the Braves, 5-3, in a rain-shortened battle.

And the Dodgers and Cardinals played to a 7-7 tie in 12 innings, the game being stopped by darkness. The Dodgers wasted two homers by Camilli and one by Waddell, blew a five-run lead in the sixth, then came from behind to tie in the ninth, leaving them still two games back of the Red Birds.

Benefit Baseball Game August 17 Marshall Field

Moose Club Will Battle Lawrence Indies In Orlando Benefit Game

The members of the Moose Club according to Walter Ringer are hard at work selling tickets for the big benefit baseball game at Marshall field on Sunday, August 17, for Able Orlando, the Moose player who suffered a broken leg recently.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock and will no doubt draw a large crowd to the popular east side ball diamond. Tickets can be purchased from any member of the Moose team, or city league players, and at the Moose Club, the James Cafe or the Liberty Hotel in Mahoningtown. The admission for the game will be 25 cents.

Start Qualifying At Field Club

The men of the New Castle Field Club are playing a group of 30 members of the Grove City Country Club here this afternoon. It was announced by Angelo "Duke" Monsey, pro at the club. This is a return match. Incidentally the men of the Field Club will start their club championship qualifying rounds this afternoon. It was announced. There will be three flights of 16 players each and a long grass flight.

The ladies of the Field Club will start their qualifying rounds on Thursday morning. It was announced. There will be two flights of eight each.

DARTMOUTH BOUND

Bill McCarthy, baseball coach at New York University, has a son who intends to play collegiate ball. And where will he play? Dartmouth.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Quickies scribbled in a jiffy:
From Montefiore hospital, Pittsburgh, Anthony Tino pens a card in which he asks us to thank the host of New Castleites who have sent in cards and letters. The popular local sportsman has been confined to the hospital for the past two weeks. Tino says he's back on the road to recovery. A shower of cards from local sports fans may help to speed up his recovery.

Henry Armstrong is picking up a lot of stray change by refereeing matches on the west coast. Jim Walkup, purchased recently by Milwaukee from Toronto won only two victories against a dozen setbacks for the Leafs. He moved from one cellar dwelling outfit to another. Jimmy Fox of the Red Sox is probably the most peaceful player in baseball. Fox has never been tossed out of a ball game on the sandlots or in organized ball.

Ted Williams' wallops in batting practice cost the Boston Red Sox about $1,000 a season. The stringy outfielder hits from 900 to 1,000 balls into the stands in pre-game practice swings during a season. Baseball scribes have figured that Joe DiMaggio's 56-game hitting streak netted the Yankees an additional $50,000 exclusive of the financial help that it gave the remaining American league teams.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Billy Soose and George Abrams fight tonight in New York. The bout is scheduled for 10 rounds. In two previous battles Soose lost the decision. In the first fight Soose put Abrams down but the latter got up without a count. In the second battle Abrams floored Soose for nine seconds. The title is not at stake because it is an overweight match. Incidentally, we wrote yesterday Moose Butch beat Jimmy Webb. It was Moose Brown. Butch is a former fighter of Pittsburgh but is now out of the game. The victory won by Brown has landed him in the lap of big time pugdom. Ted Konetsky, New Salem, Pa., 205-pound tackle and George Kracum, Trencow, Pa., 215-pound fullback, have accepted an offer to play with the Eastern College All-Stars against the New York Giants, September 3 in New York. The Pirates have transferred their option on Johnny Gee, southpaw hurler from Dallas in the Texas league to Albany in the Eastern league. Parasang scored a front-running victory in the Wilson mile at Saratoga Springs, Tuesday.

Marriage Steadies Kenny Heintzelman

PITTSBURGH — Marriage is a great institution. If you don't believe it, ask Kenny Heintzelman, Pittsburgh's southpaw flinger.

Before saying "I do," Kenny was one of the most erratic pitchers in the majors. He walked along the center of the aisle recently and has been almost indomitable ever since. He has whipped all of the National League first division teams. He's developing into one of the best porters in the league.

Oregon State's two star linemen, Bud English, center, and Bob Rambo, guard, are in the army now. Steeplechase racing is an added headline at Saratoga Springs. The 1941 Gold Cup speedboat championships will be staged at Red Bank, N. J., August 16, instead of Detroit. In 17 starts, Thornton Lee, Chicago White Sox, has been shelved off the knoll only once.

Joe Louis is "resting" by playing at least 18 holes of golf daily. Patzy Berg, pretty red-haired golf whiz from Minneapolis, socks a golf ball straight down the fairways at an average of 250 yards per drive. No less than 175 fighters are on the suspension list in the state of Texas. Bob Feller is way ahead in matter of bases on balls. The Cleveland ace has passed out 106 free tickets so far.

Curt Davis is displaying the best control in the National loop. The Brooklyn flinger is charged with only 14 bases on balls. Vander Meer is still tops in the "b.b." department. Cincinnati's Vandy has yielded 71 walks in 17 games. Freddy Hutchinson has appeared in 43 games with Buffalo of the International league and boasts of a fat 333 batting mark. On the knoll the Detroit prize rookie has won 17 against three losses.

Stock Market Slightly Soft

Losses In Some Issues Run To Point, Few Firm Spots Are Seen

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 30.—The stock market today continued generally soft following yesterday's irregularly lower trend. Losses in some of the leaders ran to a point.

There were a few independently firm spots, notably rubbers, but the great majority of representative stocks were fractionally under last night's closing prices.

Steels were weakest in the wake of U. S. Steel Corp's earnings statement for the June quarter, showing a sizeable decline from first quarter results due to a sharp increase in provisions for taxes. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Crucible each dropped a point or more before meeting support.

Volume tapered off after the active trading of the two preceding sessions. American Airlines tumbled 2 points at one time, while other aviation shares gave up fractions. Union Carbide lost more than a point in a soft chemical session.

Fractional declines were the rule in motors, copper, electrical equipments, farm implements, oils and mail orders. Rails resisted for a time, but gave ground late in the forenoon. Utilities displayed a mixed trend.

In the strong rubber group, Goodrich and Goodrich each climbed about a point to new highs for the year. U. S. Rubber gained a fraction.

Soose Is Favored To Defeat Abrams

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 30.—Middleweight Champion Billy Soose today was quoted at 7-to-5 odds to defeat George Abrams, Washington mauler, in their ten-round non-title bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The odds were quoted in Soose's favor despite the fact that Abrams has whipped him in two previous meetings.

Dempsey Now On Nova Bandwagon

(International News Service)

SALT LAKE CITY, July 30.—Jack Dempsey, who isn't so spry as he used to be, nevertheless made a big jump today—right onto the bandwagon of Lou Nova, the kid with the "cosmic punch."

"Nova will be the next heavyweight champion of the world," the old Manassa Mauler predicted.

However, he made one important reservation in forecasting the outcome of Lou's forthcoming title bout with Champion Joe Louis. Nova has to weather the first five rounds.

"If he can stay in there past the fifth, Lou will win," Jack said. "Joe is not nearly the fighter he used to be."

Happy over his reconciliation with his wife, the former Hannah Williams, Dempsey was in Salt Lake City for a reunion with his mother, brother and two sisters. His daughters, Joan, 7, and Barbara, 5, also had arrived for a visit.

The former champion will head back to New York in ten days to join his wife. "The sailing will be smooth from now on," he promised.

Jimmy Dykes May Manage Detroit

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 30.—Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, will be offered the post of manager of the Detroit Tigers at a salary of $35,000 a year, the Chicago Herald-American said Tuesday in an exclusive story.

Dykes' contract as manager of the White Sox expires at the close of the playing year and although he has been advised by Mrs. Grace Comiskey, president of the Chicago White Sox, that he can have another two-year contract he has not yet signed.

The Herald-American story stated that Walter O. Briggs, Sr., president and owner of the Detroit Tigers, has been looking for a fiery manager for some time and the present manager, Del Baker, does not quite fill the bill. Briggs was reported to regard Dykes as one of the best managers in baseball.

City League Moguls Will Meet Tonight

An extraordinary session of the City Baseball league managers and officials will be held at 9 o'clock this evening at the St. Joseph Parish hall, with Rev. Peter M. Schirra in charge of the meeting.

Only the managers of each team and not any others will be admitted to the meeting room. Matters of the league's continuance will be taken up for discussion. Any manager or accredited representative not at the meeting tonight faces a possible fine.

Incidentally all city league games were washed out by the downpour last evening and will be re-scheduled for a later date.

Softball Loop Games Tonight

Four more Lawrence County League softball games will be played tonight at 6 o'clock. The league leading Radiators will battle the Columbus club at the Rad Field.

The Johnson Bronzes plays the Fannins at Rose avenue. The Donofrios will go to Ewing Park at Ellwood to battle the Sons of Italy team. The Ellport Tigers play the Valentinos at the Hickory Heights Field.

Friday Schedule

Ellwood Sons of Italy at Fannins. Johnson Bronzes at Donofrios. Valentinos at Radiators. Columbus Club at Ellport Tigers.

DENIAL BY DYKES

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—Jimmy Dykes, peppery Chicago White Sox manager, was on record today with a flat denial that he will manage the Detroit Tigers next year for a salary of $35,000.

"There is absolutely nothing to it," Dykes said of the report published in a Chicago newspaper of a deal with Walter Briggs, Sr., Detroit owner. "I haven't signed my 1942 contract with the White Sox so far but that is merely a formality."

GAME IS CALLED OFF

Owing to the fact that the Ryan-town baseball field is now partly parked on Sampson street or nearby, the scheduled postponed Moose and Ryan-town game for tonight has been called off. It was announced by Manager Joe Samuels. There will be a lot of work necessary to put the Ryan-town field back in shape for baseball.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Former Teacher Invited To Ward School Reunion

Mrs. Anna McGurk Teacher In First Two-Room Building
In Mahoningtown

R. M. Barnes, president of the Mahoningtown School reunion, has invited Mrs. Anna McGurk, of 703 Butler avenue, to attend the reunion on Wednesday, August 6.

Mrs. McGurk is believed to be the oldest teacher from the Mahoningtown school who is still living. The local people who will remember Mrs. McGurk, will remember her as Miss Anna Tobin, George Morgan, a promising young lawyer, was the other teacher in the building, and he died years ago, according to Mrs. McGurk.

Mrs. McGurk remembers quite well her daily trips, by train, to and from Mahoningtown. She states that she would leave her home on the east side of New Castle at 7 o'clock each morning and ride a Pennsylvania train to Mahoningtown, and then return to her home on the 7 o'clock P. & L. E. train each evening.

She plans to attend the reunion get-together at the Mahoning school building on North Cedar street, next Wednesday.

WATER IN SEWER ATTRACTS CHILDREN

Children of the Seventh Ward district received quite a treat on Tuesday afternoon following the downpour, bathing and wading in the small cemented sewer on Wilder avenue, at the end of North Ashland avenue.

After the rain had subsided, the water poured down the streets, and over into the sewer, making an ideal place, and not a dangerous one for the children to play in. It noted that it didn't take very long for quite a few children to gather at the spot.

Garden Producing Food For Center

Girls At NYA Center Can Food
For Winter Months As Part Of Training

In addition to providing many fresh vegetables for the tables, the fine looking garden at the Crawford-Oakridge NYA Resident Center, Atlantic avenue is providing a great deal of canning material at the present time.

As a part of their work experience at the Center, the girls are putting up string beans, beets and other vegetables with a thought of the winter months ahead.

The garden, built on the hillside property adjoining the Center ground, is cared for by the girls during their free time. The garden is not a part of the work of the Center and for this reason all work is voluntary on the part of the girls according to Mrs. Rose Simons, resident director, who supervises the work and plans the canning program.

Progressive Club Has Annual Outing
